LORETTO PETER MUDD EXCELLENCE IN TEACHING AWARD

The Loretto Peter Mudd Excellence in Teaching Award was established in memory of Loretto Peter Mudd, a 1931 graduate of Sacred Heart Academy, who later taught at Sacred Heart and was a nurse on the original staff of the Marian Home. The award honors a full time or part time SHA teacher who consistently reflects the Ursuline core values of reverence, community, leadership and service and who demonstrates dedication to students' learning and their full human development. The recipient promotes students' self-worth and just relationships with others, reconciles differences between people of varied backgrounds and interests, exerts leadership in education and inspires students to be leaders, demonstrates service to others and challenges students to do likewise, demonstrates a love for learning and inspires this in her students, and makes significant contributions to teaching in his/her discipline. A nominee must have taught a minimum of two years at Sacred Heart (prior to this year) and cannot be a past recipient of the award within the last five years. Past recipients not eligible are John Buckman, Ann Cunningham, Dan Van Meter, Mary Lou Bryant and Janet Zeller. The recipient of the award will be announced at the Honors Day assembly in May.
